The ADCC School Memorial Program

The ANZAC Day Commemoration Committee of Queensland has developed a program which, in conjunction with local committees, will further its aim to establish a memorial in every school within Queensland. This page explains the concept and provides advice on how assistance can be obtained.

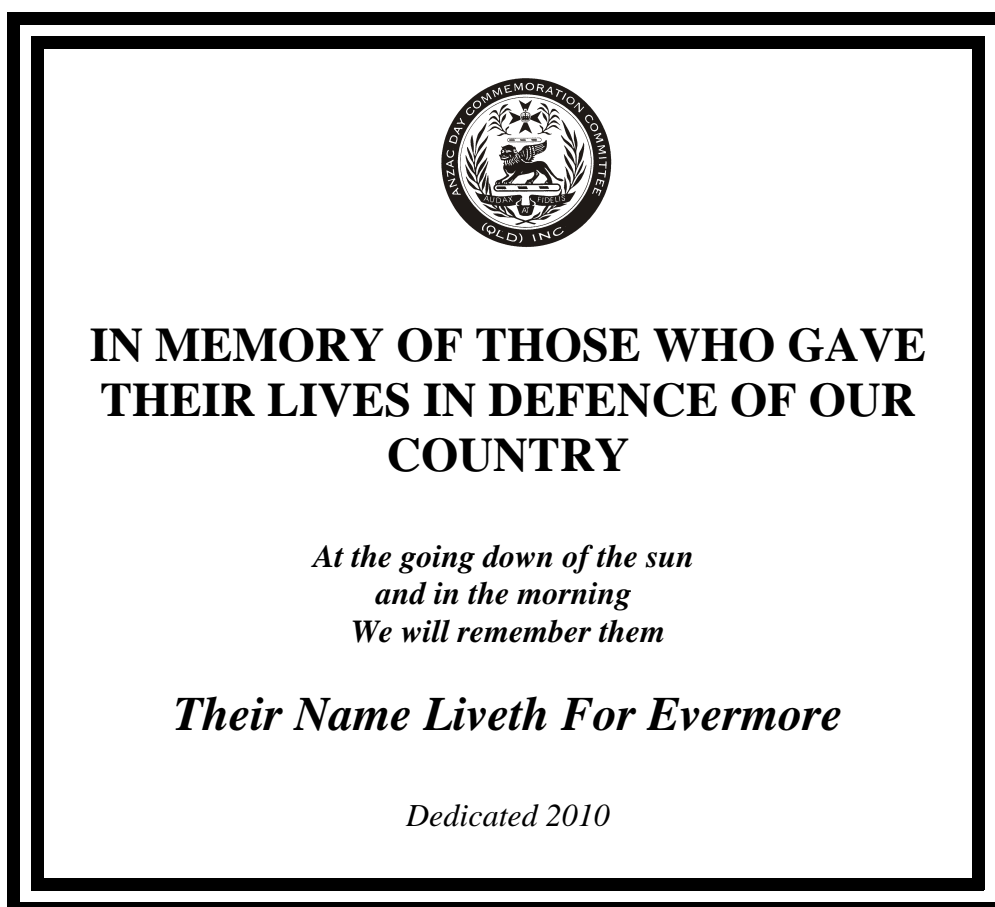

There are two aspects to be considered when selecting a site for the memorial - its proposed size and the number of students who will be assembling in front of it when services are being conducted. The memorial may be situated in the area of an existing flagpole or parade ground or set in a shady grove in the school grounds.

Next, plan a memorial garden bed which should:

- be in an area that allows sufficient space for this to be the focal point for the school's ANZAC commemorative ceremonies,
- contain a suitable rock upon which a memorial plaque can be fixed, and
- be suitably landscaped with plants and edging.

It is suggested that this memorial garden be established in conjunction with the P&C and students' committees and/or local councils and/or local businesses. The garden should be established by donation and self help so that the only major expense would be a bronze memorial plaque.

A plaque which measures approximately 300 mm x 350 mm will be supplied by the ADCC as its contribution to the memorial. The format of the plaque is below.

To apply for a memorial plaque for your school, please complete the application form on the reverse side of this page.
